APSC INSTRUCTOR CERTIFICATION

The Alaska Police Standards council will award a permanent instructor certificate in law enforcement and general subject areas, as specified below. All applications must be made on this form, F-9. Unless already sent to the APSC, verification of training and education must accompany the application. The requirements below are intended to insure that instructors meet minimum qualifications in training, education, and experience. For full text of regulations governing instructor certification, see 13 AAC 87.040, printed in the APSC Regulations and Procedures Manual.

A. Law Enforcement Subjects. To be eligible for certification to teach subjects clearly law enforcement in nature, an applicant must have a minimum of:

1. high school diploma or the equivalent;
2. three years experience in their respective professions;
3. 40 hours of council-approved instructor training - including but not limited to: communications, psychology of learning, techniques of instruction, use of instructional aids, lesson plans, evaluation of training, teaching resources, preparing and giving tests, and trainee motivation;
4. 40 hours of verified training in each subject to be taught; and
5. recommendation by a director of a council-approved training program* or by the applicant's department head (per signature of endorsing official on this form).

B. General (non-police) Subjects. To be eligible for certification to teach general subjects, an applicant must have the minimum of:

1. a bachelors degree from an accredited college;
2. three years experience in the subject taught; and
3. the recommendation by a director of a council-approved training program* (per signature of endorsing official on this form).

C. Waivers. The council may waive any part of the above requirement if:

1. it finds that a person, though not meeting all of the requirements, is otherwise qualified to be an instructor.

Training directors/coordinators or department heads must submit a request for waiver in writing, stating why they consider the applicant qualified, even though he/she does not meet all requirements specified above.

The council may revoke certification whenever it finds an instructor is no longer qualified; the instructor will be so notified and allowed the opportunity to be heard.

An instructor certificate becomes inactive if the holder does not instruct at least one APSC certified course during an interval of three consecutive years.
